

Deep impact

Ever since I became pregnant I have become overly sensitive to anything involving babies or mothers. Deep Impact was on tv the other night and it was too much for me. The girl and her parents about to get on the bus to the 'ark' and they aren't on the list and her parents are going to get left behind! And then that scene where Frodo and the girl are on the motorbike - with the baby which they had to take away from her parents! Ugh. Awful!

It doesn't even have to be human babies, animals too! Puppies, kittens...lambs. I even felt bad eating lamb the other night.

The movie on after Deep Impact was 'Dante's Peak'. Which is even worse, that scene with the Grandma and the lava?

And the dog!! Oh my gosh. Too much.

Interestingly there is a 'thing' that the action movie genre won't let a dog die, made me feel a bit better.

Sheesh. Hopefully over time I get better otherwise this is going to make watching any movies other than comedies very difficult!

- Jen